

CLAIMS OCCUPY ATTENTION OF BOARD

OVER 600 CLAIMS PASS AUDIT BY SUPERVISORS; SEVERAL HELD UP; REPORTS FILED BY COUNTY AUDITOR AND TREASURER.

Monday was claims day with the board of supervisors, and a list of 606 claims against the country treasury successfully passed the inspection of the board members, while several were held up or rejected for various reasons.

Before the consideration of the claims, reports from County Auditor J. J. Shields and County Treasurer P. P. Chamberlain were received. Mr. Chamberlain's report showed $867,753.67 county funds on hand.

Three claims for professional services during the Hightower case were received, as follows: Carl Eisen-schimmel, $770; E. O. Heinrich, $661.51, and Dr. Ernest A. Vectors, $230. These claims were approved by District Attorney Franklin Swart. The board decided to lay them over until the next meeting, however, when they will be given further consideration.

The board received a communication from E. W. Foster, city clerk of San Mateo, in which Foster stated that he had been requested by the San Mateo board of trustees to ask the board to take some action to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors at soft drink parlors in the vicinity of San Mateo. The matter was continued until January 16th without discussion.

The board refused to pass a claim of the American Garage of San Mateo for $46.04 for repairs to the White truck of the fifth road district, and instructed the clerk to return the claim with a statement that it was considered excessive.

A claim of Sheriff Michael Sheehan for expenses to San Bernardino and return for the purpose of bringing back Y. Yamamoto, Japanese charged with kidnaping, and his alleged victim, Suga Yamaguchi, in amount $166.42, was disallowed, as the board believed that the complaining witness should pay the expenses.

The much-talked-of claim of E. C. Cottier of San Mateo for work done at the county farm and hospital was ordered passed in the sum of $437.10, deductions being made for transportation.

A claim of the National Auto Repair Company of Colma, amounting to $8 for the rental of a car for the purpose of taking Mrs. R. Schumacher to the office of District Attorney Franklin Swart, was rejected as excessive.

Ferguson Owen, constable in the second township, presented a claim for $10 for services at the courthouse during the Hightower trial. This was rejected on the advice of District Attorney Franklin Swart.

A claim of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company for service for P. E. Lamb in Burlingame, amounting to $5.85, was referred to Mrs. Rosalie M. Brown for investigation and report.

John Larrony, who presented a claim for $20 for janitor work at the courthouse, will also have to look elsewhere for payment, the board having rejected his claim as not a proper one.

Officer P. J. Larrecou of Redwood City was allowed $45 on his claim of $55 by order of Chairman Thompson, $10 being deducted for an automobile used on the day of the opening of the Greater San Francisco Speedway.

The board instructed Clerk Elizabeth M. Nash to notify W. J. Graef of the United States Health Service that the allowance of the county of $140 per month for the transportation of men engaged in the extermination of squirrels would be discontinued on February 1st. This was on motion of Supervisor John MacBain, seconded by Supervisor Francis.

The board will meet again on Monday, January 16th.

Are you going to attend the big whist party to be given by the Merchants' Association at Metropolitan Hall, January 18? There will be over $200 in prizes given away.

DR. F. S. DOLLEY NOW AT HEAD OF C. OF C.

Annual Election Held Tuesday Evening; Steps to Be Taken Toward Securing Better Transportation.

One of the largest gatherings of members of the Chamber of Commerce that has taken place for some time occurred at the city hall Tuesday evening at the annual election of officers for the organization. The council chamber was well filled and every member present manifested keen interest in the proceedings. Addresses characterized by a spirit of optimism as to the work the Chamber can accomplish and also as to the industrial outlook were delivered by several of the outgoing officers as well as by some of those taking office.

The following were the officers elected for the coming year, each being new to the office with the exception of secretary. President, Dr. F. S. Dolley; vice-president, Andrew Hyndling; secretary, H. E. Smith; treasurer, Henry Haaker; directors—W. J. Bates, H. A. Cavassa, W. H. Dinning, Robert Speed, S. Nieri; national representative, J. W. Coleberd. President J. C. McGovern earnestly requested before the nominations opened that he be not nominated for re-election, as it was impossible for him to attend to the duties of the office. In leaving the chair, the retiring president cordially thanked those in attendance for their help and encouragement during his two years' tenure of office. On motion of Judge E. E. Cunningham, the Chamber tendered Dr. McGovern a vote of thanks for his faithful services. On taking the chair Dr. F. S. Dolley delivered a graceful speech, in which he outlined some of his plans for the Chamber and bespoke the support of the members. Vice-President Hyndling also delivered an address along similar lines.

A letter from the Severn Electric Company stated that this concern would be glad to quote prices on the electrolier system of lighting for the town, and Dr. McGovern and Andrew Hyndling were appointed a committee to co-operate with a committee from the city trustees and the Merchants' Association to get data on such lights.

President H. A. Cavassa of the Merchants' Association spoke on the great need South San Francisco has of better transportation facilities, and made a motion that a committee from the Chamber wait on the officials of the Peninsula Rapid Transit Company with a view to getting stages routed through this city connecting with San Francisco and peninsula points. As President Dolley had been called out on the meeting, Vice-President Hyndling, occupying the chair, let the appointments for this committee go over for the president's attention.

The matter of the projected east side highway was brought up, and County Surveyor George Kneese informed the Chamber that his office had finished the survey for the road and had its estimate on costs almost ready to present to the board of supervisors. Kneese stated that this survey and estimate took in only the highway from San Bruno south, but that he was sure the board will be willing to include the projected north end, connecting with Colma and Daly City by a link through this city.

J. W. Coleberd, newly elected national representative of the Chamber, spoke on the need of grading and improving the civic center. Considerable discussion followed as to the best way of raising the money to do this, it being the consensus of opinion that a direct tax would be preferable to a bond issue. The Chamber went on record as endorsing the improvement, and the matter will be presented to the city trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor of Fort Bragg have been guests at the Elker-enkotter home. Mr. Taylor is a brother of Mrs. Elkerenkotter. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor went to Mill Valley to visit after leaving here, and word has been received that Mr. Taylor was taken severely ill while there.

BIG WHIST PARTY TICKETS GOING FAST

Card Party Planned by Merchants' Association Promises to Crowd Hall.

Tickets for the big whist party to be given by the Merchants' Association Wednesday evening of next week are now selling rapidly, and there is every indication that every one will have found a purchaser by the date of the party. Each of the thirty or more members of the association has pledged himself to dispose of as many tickets as possible, and considerable rivalry has resulted as to who shall sell the greatest number.

All through the week the array of splendid prizes to be given at the affair has been on display in the window of A. T. Arndt's store. They fill the big window and have attracted many persons passing, who have stopped to look and marvel at their number and great value. The list is headed by a $100 phonograph given by the Peninsula Drug Company. All the prizes have been donated by the merchants.

It is confidently expected by the members of the association that Metropolitan Hall will see one of the largest gatherings of its history when the game opens next Wednesday evening. One feature of the affair will be that two or three of the best prizes will be awarded to the holders of the lucky numbers to be drawn from a box. Whether the holders play whist or not, the prizes will be theirs.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS PROGRAM AT MEETING

Addresses and Musical Numbers Enjoyed at Meeting Held Thursday.

(Contributed.) The regular meeting of the Woman's Club of South San Francisco was held in Metropolitan Hall on Thursday, January 5th.

The following program was enjoyed by those present:

L. E. Adams, "Ways in Which a Parent-Teachers' Association Might Be a Help to the Teachers, the School and the Community."

Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Ledwith, "The Benefits of the Parent-Teachers' Association in San Bruno."

Miss Woodward of San Francisco, on tuberculosis and the buying of the Christmas seals.

Solos by Mrs. E. P. Kauffmann of South San Francisco and Mrs. Ella Klein of San Francisco.

The members of the club are urged to support its plans for the year by their attendance at the meetings. The magnanimity of numbers will be an influence in the materialization of the vision our women have for a clubhouse, where we may enjoy the satisfaction of having been a part of a constructive idea.

Moreover, at each meeting good music is heard, some speaker is present to give of his knowledge of an uplift movement occupying the attention of the world, as the recent "Seal" sale, and lastly, there is the social hour, where a cup of tea well brewed and a cake well made send you home feeling the warmth of co-operation.

Think, then, of the "dividends" your presence draws and come to the next meeting Thursday, February 2d.

Mrs. E. M. Boyle was pleasantly surprised New Year's eve by the arrival of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Immel, who motored up from their home in Huntington Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Immel spent the week here.

TAMBO AND BONES TO REIGN IN GLORY

Blackface Artists Will Crack Jokes, Sing and Dance at Fraternal Hall Saturday Evening, Jan. 28.

The minstrel show to be given at Fraternal Hall the evening of January 28th promises to be the greatest affair of its kind ever staged in South San Francisco. Professional talent, semi-professional and amateur performers from San Francisco and this city have been secured to the number of about fifty, and jokes, songs, and regular and irregular minstrel stunts planned that promise to make this show one that will go echoing down the corridors of time as an example of all that a live, wideawake show should be, and one that persons attending will be glad to talk about to their children and their grandchildren.

Among the local performers, three Francisco will be "Scotty" Butterworth and his running mate, who have acted as endmen for many Olympic Club, Bohemian Club and Elks' minstrel shows, and are among the best now appearing in the business. These two will act as the endmen.

The Shrine Quartet from San Francisco will be there with a list of songs of the kind and quality that has made them famous.

Among the local performers, three at least are worthy more than a passing word. Henry Minnuccianni, whose tenor voice has made him famous all over the peninsula, will render several songs, while the Gian-nacchini brothers, Willie and Reno, juvenile performers on the cornet and accordion, will appear on the program. So many unusually good numbers have been planned it is impossible to list them all, but there is no doubt that everybody attending the show will see a performance they will never forget.

BANDITS SHOOT MAN AT LOCAL GARAGE

TWO UNMASKED MEN HOLD UP DEPOT GARAGE AND SHOOT NIGHT WATCHMAN WHEN HE IS SLOW TO OBEY ORDERS.

Edward Hamilton, aged 55 years, lies in the South San Francisco Hospital hovering between life and death as the result of a gunshot wound in the abdomen received Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock, when two bandits held up the Depot Garage, where Mr. Hamilton was employed as night man. Fred Lautze, proprietor of the garage, and two customers, Max Wille and G. Bloomdale, were stood up against the wall and their pockets rifled of about $100.

Hamilton was in the garage alone Tuesday evening when two young men, about 25 or 26 years of age and unmasked, entered and ordered him to hold up his hands. Thinking they were joking, Hamilton was slow in complying with the order, whereupon one of the bandits shot him in the abdomen, the bullet ranging downward and emerging from his thigh.

A few minutes later Lautze and two men who had been with him to look at a car for sale drove up in front and stood on the curb talking. The two bandits emerged from the garage and, addressing Lautze, asked if he were the proprietor. On receiving an affirmative answer, the two drew guns and forced the three men into the garage with their faces to the wall. The robbers went through their pockets and, after forcing Lautze to open the cash drawer and helping themselves to its contents, drove Lautze and the other two men into Lautze's machine and forced him at the point of a gun to drive them toward San Francisco by way of Colma and Daly City. While standing at the wall with his hands in the air, Lautze had seen Hamilton bound and gagged with his hands fastened in the air over a peg in the wall, but did not know he had been shot. When the car with the five men was about half way between Colma and Daly City, the robbers told the driver and his friends to get out, whereupon they took the machine and continued on into the city. As the three got out the robbers told them they had shot Hamilton. As soon as possible Lautze reached the nearest phone and warned the San Francisco police that the bandits were coming toward town, but they were not apprehended. Wednesday morning, however, the car was found at the corner of First and Minna streets in San Francisco.

When Lautze returned to this city Hamilton was discovered, weak from loss of blood and suffering, and hurried to the hospital, where an operation was performed closing several perforations in the man's intestines caused by the passage of the bullet.

No arrests have yet been made in connection with the robbery.

Lautze states that, although he secured but one brief look at the bandits' faces when they came from the garage, he thinks he would recognize at least one if he saw them again.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Leonard had the following as their dinner guests New Year's day: Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Fitschen of San Francisco, parents of Mrs. Leonard; Misses Elsa and Anita Fitschen; Mr. and Mrs. Will Shade of San Francisco and Arthur Shade; Claude Herschey of Hillsborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fitschen of San Francisco.

Jack Reeves, well known in the fistie world, was in town Monday meeting old acquaintances. Jack left Tuesday for Tulsa, Okla., where he is scheduled to meet "Kid" Palmer January 16th. He then leaves for New York City and, under the management of Leo Flynn, Reeves will be kept busy for several months.

Martedì sera alle ore nove circa due banditi assaltarono il Depot Garage e spararono un colpo di rivoltella contro il guardiano notturno Edward Hamilton ferendolo all'addome. Questi si trova ora al South San Francisco Hospital combattendo fra la vita e la morte.

I due banditi colla rivoltella in pugno forzarono il proprietario del luogo Fred Lautze e due clienti ad allearsi di tutto quello che possedevano.

Questi poi fuggirono nell'automobile del Lautze medesimo. Questa fu poi ritrovata in San Francisco alla First and Minna streets.

DENOUNCES RELIGIOUS PARTISANSHIP IN SERMON

The Rev. B. D. Weigle, executive secretary of the social service department under Bishop Parsons, assisted the Rev. E. H. Molony and preached in Grace Episcopal Church last Sunday morning. The preacher took his subject from the lessons of Epiphany based on the Star of Bethlehem, and developed the social message of the gospel. He laid particular emphasis on light-obstructionists as evidenced in the narrow views of partisans within the church and without: in the shibboleths of "schools of thought" or sectarian intolerance and conceit. He proclaimed the broadened tolerance of the present-day church, referring particularly to that great progressive leader, Phillips Brooks.

Mr. Weigle was for a time in charge of Grace Church, many years ago, and some of his old friends were glad to welcome him again. It was under his leadership that the Guild Hall was erected, the brick foundation being largely his own labor.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning will be "How a Pagan Superstition Led Its Sincere Believers to the Light of the World."

Business Methods.

When the agent brought Mrs. Tarley her fire insurance policy he remarked that it would be well for her to pay the premium at once.

"How much will it be?" she asked.

"About fifteen dollars. Wait a minute and I'll find the exact amount."

"Oh, how tiresome!" she exclaimed.

Motorists who analyze car values carefully will be interested in the following telegram:

San Francisco, Calif., October 31, 1921.

Homestead Garage, San Mateo, Calif.
Model 47 Oldsmobile, equipped with standard pacemaker body, yesterday ran 1000-mile test on Cotati Speedway. Total elapsed time for 1000 miles, 89 minutes, making over 66 2-3 miles per hour. The trial started at 1:05 a. m., finished at 4:24 p. m. Dense fog encountered from 4 to 6:45 a. m. First 500 miles, average speed, 62 22-100 miles per hour; last 500 miles, 70 4-100 miles per hour. Last lap at rate of 72 miles per hour. Fastest lap, 81 79-100 miles per hour. During the entire 1000 miles the bonnet was never lifted and motor running sweetly and smoothly at the finish. Race officially observed and timed by representatives of San Francisco press.

J. W. LEAVITT & CO.

That the Oldsmobile could make this time proves that it has power and speed. That it could make the 1000 miles without even raising the bonnet proves that it is dependable, reliable and durable.

EDITORIALS FROM YOUR FELLOW-CITIZENS

A well-conducted newspaper, such as The Enterprise strives to be, is always more than a distributor of news and advertising announcements. It should also convey expressions on public questions from the citizens of the territory it serves. The desire for public expression is a universal trait, and justly so. The citizen who is interested in the progress of his home town should be willing to voice his opinion on questions of the day. Recognizing this, The Enterprise has determined to publish a series of editorials by citizens of this city. The publication of these editorials does not necessarily mean that this paper is in accord with the opinions expressed and it will not be held responsible for these opinions. The Enterprise is merely acting as a vehicle of public expression. Each editorial will be signed and each writer given the privilege of writing upon any subject he may choose, the only condition being that the subject treated be of general interest and a reasonable degree of brevity observed.

For a better and bigger South San Francisco patronize your local merchants and professional men.

They are part of your community and deserve your patronage. Your loyalty to the home town is measured by your loyalty to home business institutions. Be loyal to the home town the same as you are to the nation. It's neighborly. Merchants and professional men of other cities don't share your joys and sorrows—home-town men do. It's enlightened selfishness. Your prosperity is linked with your community, and your community is just you and your neighbors. Merchants and professional men in other cities don't help you maintain churches, schools, parks, streets, roads, etc., or help you solve community problems; home community folks do.

Every citizen owes it to himself, to his fellow-citizens and to the community to do all he can to make South San Francisco a bigger and better town in which to live and do business. It is your duty as good citizens to do your part. It is your duty to try to get others to see their obligation of citizenship and render all assistance possible.

The work of making South San Francisco a bigger and better town is not the work of a few and can not be accomplished by a few. It is the work of all for the good of all.

If you work in South San Francisco, LIVE HERE.

If you live in South San Francisco, TRADE HERE.

Attend the big whist party on the 18th and get better acquainted with your HOME-TOWN MERCHANTS.

THE TAX MENACE

From every state in the West comes the plea of industry for tax reduction. Practically every Western state is loaded with a political overhead which would not be justified by ten times the population.

Every public official denies all responsibility for the increased tax burden and says, "If the people vote these measures, what can I do?"

Admitting without argument that the people are to blame for all the tax burdens under which they stagger at present, what is to be done about it? Obviously, if the people are responsible for the tax increase, it is up to the people to see that they get a tax reduction.

When tax reduction is suggested the present beneficiaries of our tax system say it simply cannot be done, but the fact remains that it must be done. Private industry has reduced expense all along the line to meet changed conditions and government must adjust itself to a more economical basis in the same manner as the individual and business has done.

The man who fights for tax reduction today is often held up to ridicule and calumny by those who prey off the present tax system and pay little or no share toward the burdens of government. The power of present political parties will be overturned unless they join willingly in the campaign for tax reduction. Thus will experimental political parties gain power as a result of public unrest. Progressive Western states are pressing programs of retrenchment for cutting down their overhead of taxation from 25 to 30 per cent.—Industrial News Bureau.

INSTANT HEAT—ELECTRICALLY

Comfort and convenience in housekeeping are esteemed more highly today than ever before. This is especially true of kitchen work. Every device that can make cooking easy and its results certain is incorporated in

AN ELECTRIC RANGE

One of these advantages is the instant application of heat. There is no striking of matches or carrying of fuel—no long waiting for the fire to "burn up." It is ready at the turn of a switch.

An Electric Range is the range of comfort. All the heat goes into the cooking—not into the room. This feature does more than add to kitchen comfort. Besides being such a great convenience, it actually means economy, for did you ever count the cost of fuel in keeping up a fire both before and after the time you were making actual use of it?

CITY TRUSTEES MEET IN REGULAR SESSION

Considerable Business Relating to City Is Transacted by Officials at Meeting Wednesday Evening.

The city trustees held their regular meeting Wednesday night, with Trustees Kane and Palmer absent.

City Attorney Davis notified the board that the Santa Clara Valley Land Company's case in the appellate court against the city, in which the company sought to have the city enjoined from selling its property for delinquent taxes, had been dismissed on motion of their attorney, who intended going into the superior court on an amended complaint charging that the purchase of the water system did not come within the meaning of the act as an improvement plan, seeing it referred to the purchase of a water system in being and not to be built. Judge Davis gave it as his opinion that Judge Buck would deny the injunction sought, and that same would be appealed to the appellate court, which would uphold the decision of the lower court.

The city attorney also notified the board that counsel for the Municipal Improvement Company had advised them that on account of the legal advertising under resolution 272 being defective, it would be desirable, and his advice, that the city get some owner to start a friendly suit, whereby they ask that the city be enjoined from proceeding with the work. In this way the case could come before the court and be decided expeditiously and without a dollar's expense to the city, and Davis gave it as his opinion that there was nothing in the contention which would be denied, the result being that by the time the Municipal Improvement Company was ready to proceed with the street work in San Bruno Park the case would be satisfactorily adjusted. The board voted that a friendly suit as suggested should be commenced, and requested the city clerk, Miss Willis, to get some property owner interested to commence one, which she consented to do.

City Engineer George Kneese reported that in the matter of the Della Maggiora sewer, he understood Prosper Bou was willing a lateral sewer be built from such property across his lot and connected with the sewer on Mills avenue, provided that the expense be shared between the city, himself and Della Maggiora. This the board consented to do.

The city marshal reported that his office had collected fines in the recorder's court during the last month amounting to $265.

Permits were granted to A. Lee to erect a dwelling in San Bruno Park; to E. G. Van Gelder, for the addition to his residence, Belle Air, and to August Hintman for a water tank.

The water commission sent in a letter requesting the board to immediately take some steps toward having another well sunk on the San Felipe pump station lots, as same would be necessary in view of the prospective demand this year for an increased water supply. The board decided to hold a joint meeting with the water board, when the matter would be gone into.

Mr. Jenevein sent in an offer of the whole of his property bounded by Tucker avenue on the north, San Mateo avenue on the east, El Camino Real on the west, and the Union Oil station on the south, for $65,000, which he stated would be most desirable for a public park and a site for a city hall. The board in discussing the matter was most favorably impressed with the value of the property to the city. On motion being duly made and seconded, the board decided to appoint a committee to go thoroughly into this matter, so that it could later be presented to the citizens to vote upon, such committee to consist of the board of trustees, the city attorney and one representative from each of the city's subdivisions. The mayor said that he would take under advisement the names of those to serve at large.

The California Bank of San Mateo, through its President Hardin Hatch, requested the board to definitely state whether or not it was affordable to the purchase of the California Hall building for $12,500, and requested an immediate decision. The board, through its chairman, stated that they had already gone on record as desirous the people of San Bruno might vote on this purchase, and were not in favor of the trustees assuming the right to purchase without first having the citizens vote on the matter.

The Market Street railroad, through its counsel William Abbot, requested that the trustees pass its bill for $944.09 for the installation of the wig-wag on Angus avenue, otherwise the company would be forced to seek other means to have same paid. The city attorney was requested to take this matter up with the Railroad Commission and get its authorization for the payment of the bill, in view of the fact that there was nothing official on the minutes of the board authorizing such work. Further, he was asked to see the Southern Pacific, which also has a bill for practically a similar amount, and see what arrangement could be made, in the event the board approved the payment, toward liquidating it by payments.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY.

Sunday a serious accident occurred, due, it is alleged, to drunkenness on the part of the driver of one of the cars involved, which sent Mrs. Alfred Comey of 1083 Union street, San Francisco, to the St. Francis Hospital, where it was found she had received serious internal injuries. Thomas Segurson, driver of the offending car, was charged with reckless driving.

Mrs. Comey at the time of the accident was not considered seriously injured and returned to her home in the city, but next day her husband had her conveyed to the St. Francis Hospital, as her condition was found to be most serious.

Those who attended the Methodist Community Church last Sunday had the rare opportunity of hearing a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Dille, who is one of the oldest and most eminent ministers in the church.

Miss Body, Red Cross nurse, visited the Lomita Park school Monday, and was delighted with the progress made by the pupils in carrying out the health program. Mrs. Colings, principal of the school, has been very energetic in this work, and the results are most encouraging.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ryles visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilkin Sunday. Mr. Ryles, who is superintendent of oil wells for a Dutch company in Borneo, has come to this coast for his health. The ocean voyage took three months, and Mr. Ryles has many interesting accounts to give, both of the trip and of the Dutch possessions.

At the last meeting of the Development Association it was decided to give a card party January 21st to raise funds for current expenses. There will be a number of valuable prizes awarded, refreshments served, a grab bag and excellent music. Mr. and Mrs. Horrocks, Mr. and Mrs. Stucky and Mr. and Mrs. Parish were appointed a committee on arrangements. This being the first meeting in the new year, an election of officers was held and the presiding officers were re-elected, as follows: Mr. Baumgartner, president; Mrs. Bennet, vice-president; Miss E. E. Smith, secretary; Mrs. Nellie

AN ORVILLE

By MILDRED WHITE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Diana's elder sister brought her argument to a climax.

"Remember, my dear," she said grandly, "that you are an Orville."

"Well," asked Diana testily, "exactly what does that mean? First, and always, I am an American, and if my mother chose to fall in love and marry into an aristocratic old family, why should I be continually persecuted with the fact?"

Gwendolin shrugged.

"Mother was a sweet and lovable lady. You greatly resemble her pictures, Diana. But she wore herself out endeavoring to live up to the requirements of father's family, failing dispiritedly in the end. Mother's tastes and ambitions were simple and homely, like yours, my dear. The rest of us are all Orvilles. And I don't mind confessing here, in the secrecy of my boudoir, that my marriage was made in accord with the dictates of father's family. I owed them that. Aunt Phyllis Orville talked with me often concerning my duty, and I knew what would be expected when Grandmother Orville, in my girlhood, sent me abroad. I was supposed to repay that kindness by a gratifying marriage. And I did. Gordon is a banker, coming from one of the finest families in Boston. There was a boy in the co-ed college I attended—"

Gwendolin paused. Her usually sharp black eyes were filled with dreams.

"Never mind that episode," she went on. "I merely refer to it to show you that we all have our love affairs and that they are easily put in abeyance. I admit I rather fancied this stranger admirer of yours, until Lois Adams learned accidentally of his boarding place. My dear! Think of a man of the slums presuming to force his attentions upon you! I declare it makes me furious when I realize how Lois must have laughed in secret over our humiliation."

"She need not laugh," Diana said, her quiet tone in pleasant contrast to her sister's excited one. "John Dalton is a man, whether he lives in the slums or the exclusive park, though that 'slum' remark is an exaggeration. He does board, he told me so frankly, in an old and shabby part of the city. He is trying to make his way up in his profession, alone and unaided. He thought," added Diana bravely, "that we could marry sooner that way. And nothing in the world," the girl raised her lovely, flushed face, "is of consequence to John now, save our marriage—and his profession."

Gwendolin jumped to her feet.

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Has your affair gone as far as that? What will father say, if you persist in this foolishness?" the sister wailed.

Diana arose.

"I don't know," she replied. "I guess I'll go and ask him."

Her father was not in any room of the apartment which they shared together, so she sought him later in his office.

"Father," the young, loved daughter asked abruptly, "what became of Aunt Phyllis Orville, and why were my sisters obliged to live up to her snobbish standards?"

"Brought up like a princess, Phyllis was," he said. "We Orvilles had a pretty fine home, big stone place facing Orville court. Phyllis inherited the property and disposed of it, I suppose, long ago. Foreigners and business blocks have crowded out the court. It's called plain Court street now. I never drive down that way—furnishes my memories."

"Court street," repeated Diana. "Father, I came to talk to you about Court street. It's where a man lives that I love."

"Love," whispered Colin Orville. He stared now at his daughter.

Diana nodded. "John is a civil engineer, father," she went on, "and your own friend Mr. Stewart thinks a great deal of him. But Gwendolin is humiliated because I want to marry John, for I am an Orville, and he lives on Court street." The sentences came in a confused rush.

Deliberately her father arose and got into his coat. "We will go and see just where he is," he said. "We can talk things over on the way."

It was a dingy house of past grandeur—oh, very far past, with crowding stores on either side, and children chattering around it in a foreign tongue.

Colin Orville grasped his daughter's arm. "Diana," he cried, "my dear, this is my old home." He shook his head sadly, then smiled his whimsical smile. "That, for the lasting glory of a proud name, and a proud house."

An old lady opened the door. She was a tall, white-haired woman, and she opened to them as one conferring a favor; then all at once her sternness melted into one longing cry.

"Colin," she said, "Oh, Colin!"

"To think," Diana's father said later, as the three sat in the old parlor together, "that you married a poor man abroad, Phyllis, my dear, and were too proud to confess to your family. And to think that you came back again to live on here in secrecy—perhaps in want—"

"Oh, no," the old lady answered him, "I have made a living, Colin, and I've had some really nice boarders. There's an exceptional young man stopping with me now, a Mr. John Dalton—"

"I know," laughed Diana, tremulous, start-eyed; "that young man is going to marry an Orville, Aunt Phyllis."

His Best Extinguisher.

Mr. Budger and his wife were continually at variance regarding their individual capacities of making and keeping a good fire. He contended that she did not know how to make a fire, or how to keep one after it was made. She, on the other hand, maintained that he never meddled with the fire that he didn't put it out—in short, that he was a regular fire-dampener, and as he was always anxious to stir up things in the various fireplaces, she made it a practice of hiding the poker just before it was time for him to come into the house. One night there was an alarm of fire in the village, and Budger flew for his hat and coat.

"Where are you going?" asked the wife.

"Why, there's a fire, and I'm going to help put it out."

"Well, my love," responded Mrs. Budger, "I think the best you can do is to take the poker with you."—Everybody's Magazine.

Long Life Assured.

Brown was the possessor of very large feet and a very bad cough. He entered a shoe store and the young clerk turned the place upside down to find something to fit him. Brown had just tried on the fortieth pair when he started coughing.

"Nasty cough!" said the assistant. "Yes," gasped Brown. "Doctor says I've got one foot in the grave."

"I shouldn't worry," said the assistant. "You'll never get the other in; it's too big!"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

ALONG the MEXICAN BORDER

Primitive Water Carts on Mexican Border.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

No region in all North America is more frequently mentioned or more widely misunderstood, perhaps, as regards places, routes, distances, and the customs of the people, than the Mexican border. The name itself brings to mind a blending of modern Americanism and the romance of the old frontiers. It hints at turmoil and intrigue, at wild night rides by cavalry patrols, at gun-runners and smugglers. It suggests, too, brown-faced, snappy-eyed senoritas in red skirts and mantillas, peddling tongue-blistering tamales and mild dulces; of Mexican women washing clothes, babies and dishes in irregular ditches; of burros, hens and pigs foraging about the doorways of flat-topped, squat adobe huts.

In many ways the social cleavage of this border is sharp and startling. It cuts us off abruptly from another people, showing an odd, interesting cross-section of diverse civilizations.

Nor are all the people along this line either Yankees or Mexicans. Thousands of Chinese are settled there on the Mexican side; and beside them are Turks and Japanese, and 20 Indian tribes speaking 20 of the babel of tongues heard in Mexico.

Thousands of settlers migrate to this borderland each year, losing themselves in the vast, hazy-blue stretches of its open country; but they are Americans all, mostly from the Middle West and the South. The hordes of Flims, Slavs and Neapolitans that pour into our Atlantic ports never get this far; they stop in the manufacturing centers of the East. In Texas and California, of course, native-born generations are found; in the newer states of Arizona and New Mexico most of the residents (barring children) have come from other states.

Rough and Difficult Trip.

Adventurous, colorful and full of contrasts as it is, the 1,800-mile trip along this crooked historic line is rough and difficult and has been made by few people.

Some of the wildest and least known regions of our country are piled up against this border. Ask any dough-boy, of the many, many thousands who have done a "hitch" on the Mexican border, what he thinks, for instance, of Ajo or the Yuma sector.

From the gulf up to El Paso, along the Texas frontier, the Rio Grande forms the boundary between the United States and Mexico; thence to the Pacific the line is marked by stone or iron monuments (save a short break at the Colorado), so set that one is supposed to be visible from the other.

The Rio Grande part of this border has caused both Uncle Sam and Mexico much work and mental anguish. During bad floods the line as formed by the river squirms around in so astonishing and lively a manner that what is Mexican soil one day may be in Texas the next, and vice versa.

Then, too, there is the ever-recurring problem of dividing the waters of the river for irrigating purposes. Around such places as Laredo, Tex., this situation affords many an acrimonious international argument.

No spot on the whole border affords more of impressive grandeur than the region about the mouth of the Pecos. This yellow, turbulent stream roars into the Rio Grande near the town of Del Rio, foaming along the bottom of a steep-walled canyon worn hundreds of feet deep in the solid rock.

Relic of Camel Experiment.

At the old fort at Camp Verde, north of Uvalde, in a relic of one of the old experiments ever made by our government. It is an Arab khan, in ruins now, but in its time an exact replica of the rectangular adobe caravansaries built along such caravan trails as that from Bagdad to Teheran. This khan was built back in 1856, when Jefferson Davis was secretary of war and the famous experiment was made with camels for army transport use between Texas and California.

As you follow the border west, oaks, pines and underbrush decrease, aridity increases, and cacti lift their thorny heads. Cattle, goats and sheep are pastured in large numbers; but, except for irrigated areas along the river, the country is thinly settled and undeveloped. Border counties like Brewster, Presidio and El Paso are of amazing area—larger than some of our small eastern states. Windmills are everywhere—"big electric fans to keep the cattle cool," a waggish cowboy once explained to a London tenderfoot.

El Paso ("The Pass"), great border mart of west Texas, is set on the edge of a rich stretch of the Rio Grande valley. It stands at the point of intersection between two old highways, the first channels of traffic established by white men in America. It is the only large city from "San Antonio" to Los Angeles, a ride of 1,500 dry, dusty miles. It is well served by both American and Mexican railways, and its merchants buy and sell goods for hundreds of miles below the Rio Grande. Despite the arid country about it and its occasional blinding dust-storms, its climate is exceptionally good, owing to high elevation.

The largest irrigation reservoir anywhere is the great Elephant Butte dam, which stores more water than the world-famous Assuan dam on the Nile. This big dam, built in the Rio Grande above El Paso, at a point in New Mexico, holds water enough, we are told, "to cover Massachusetts to a depth of six inches."

Juarez, El Paso's sister city across the Rio Grande, like most Mexican border towns, is known chiefly because of its pitched battles and its bizarre methods of entertaining sporty American visitors. A wooden bridge spans the river here, and El Paso street cars loop over into Mexico—when the looping is safe.

Across an Arid Wilderness.

From the point at Monument No. 1 where the boundary line crawls out of the Rio Grande (at the southeastern corner of New Mexico), it strikes west into a wilderness of singularly dry and empty aspect. For 40 miles along this march the traveler must carry his own water. Near Columbus a few small trees appear.

To the west lie the rough, hostile foothills of the Dog mountains; near here, in the San Luis range, the line reaches a point 6,600 feet above the sea, marking the continental divide. Through San Luis pass runs the old emigrant trail.

Slightly west of the one hundred and eighth meridian the line turns at right angles and runs south for a few miles, thence west again.

In the San Bernardino valley the line strikes the first running water after quitting the Rio Grande—192 miles to the east. In the whole 700-mile stretch from the Rio Grande to the Pacific this line crosses only five permanent running streams, and the average rainfall throughout its length is only eight inches. Save the hamlets of Columbus and Hachita, the New Mexico section of the border is almost uninhabited.

Hurdling this line in pursuit of Geronimo and his Apaches was for years a favorite outdoor army sport in these parts; but nowadays most ambitious residents are mining copper, roping and branding cattle or fussing with irrigation ditches.

Not long ago coyotes were chasing horned toads over an empty desert where Douglas, Ariz., now stands, with libraries, country clubs, theaters, public baths, street cars and a hotel that might have been lifted bodily out of Cleveland or Kansas City. Just over the line from Douglas lies drab, dusty Agua Prieta, with its sleepy peons and sad-eyed burros.

Biste in a Canyon.

West of Douglas, eight miles north of Naco, on the line, and quite hidden in the barren Mule mountains, lies the quaint upside-down, busy, hustling Biste. Its main street runs up a deep canyon, many of its houses clinging like pigeon cotes to steep hillsides.

Of our whole border, the California section is perhaps best known to Americans because of denser population, excellent motor trails and proximity to cities like San Diego, Los Angeles, El Centro and the below-the-sea border town of Calexico, opposite Mexicali. The incredibly fertile Imperial valley of California sweeps north from Calexico to the Salton sea, more than 200 feet below the sea level.

From Calexico the line runs west past Signal mountain, up the Jacumba pass over the Lagunas, past the historic border town of Campo, through the towns of Tecate and Tia Juana (famous for races and gambling casinos), and thence to the Pacific, a few miles below San Diego.

WINTER MILLINERY IS MAKING A DIGNIFIED EXIT

IT IS only the aristocrats among hats that survive the length of the season to find themselves admired and salable at its close—when all their lovely companions are faded and gone. These hats have excellences that give them a lasting appeal; in beauty and becomingness of lines, in unusual or ingenious drapery or in flattering color combinations. Nevertheless they must soon make way for hats of another character—those between-seasons affairs of silk, satin and other fabrics that fill in the gap between late winter and spring, so that milliners are willing to part with fine winter hats at a sacrifice.

Three examples of the survival of the fittest in winter millinery are shown above, with one small, plain companion of felt that will face snow or sun with equal success. The large hat at the top of the group, has a crown of rich brocade silk and an eccentric brim, beautifully draped with velvet. This combination is never out of date in winter hats and makes opportunity for many lovely color combinations. There is plenty of time for its cheerful display between now and Easter. Large hats are in the minority, but one of the dependable styles among them appears at the left of the group. This is a velvet hat also, with a narrow band of krummer between the top and side crown. A very large and handsome hand-made flower of velvet and satin is posed at the right side.

The small, chic turban that finishes the group has everything to recommend it to those who appreciate its fine points. It is made of black velvet studded with nailhead ornaments and its lines are those of the beautiful oriental turban. It is not worth while to undertake to improve on them or upon the pose of the feather which springs up at the front. This hat will please smartly dressed matrons.

Other noteworthy hats that hold a brief for winter show metal brocades, velvet and fur in rich combinations, all in small or medium sizes.

TEN TO ONE—WILD BILL'S GREATEST FIGHT

©, Western Newspaper Union.

When the Overland stage route to the Colorado gold fields was established shortly before the Civil war, one of the bravest drivers in its employ was a young man from Illinois named James B. Hickok. In 1861 Hickok was taken off the stages and put in charge of the Rock Creek station, west of Topeka, Kan., in a region filled with gangs of outlaws and highway robbers. One of these, known as the McCandless gang, invited Hickok to join them and, upon his refusal, threatened to visit him some day and make him regret his defiance.

"You'll find me here any time you come," was Hickok's reply.

A few days later the McCandless gang did find him there. They attacked him in his dug-out, battered down the door and Jim McCandless, the leader, sprang into the room. He was killed by a bullet from Hickok's rifle. Three more of the gang were shot down with a pistol before the other six drew their bowie knives and rushed upon him.

"Then I went wild," said Hickok in telling of the fight afterwards. Desperately wounded but terrible in his berserker rage, he came to grips with the outlaws, and when the fight was over eight of the ten were dead and the other two fled for their lives. Ever afterward Hickok was known as "Wild Bill."

Later Wild Bill enlisted in the Union army as a scout. He served with General Curtis in Arkansas and repeatedly entered the Confederate lines as a spy. More than once he was discovered and forced to flee, and more than once the fleetness and intelligence of his favorite horse, "Black Nell," saved his life. He was a sharpshooter at the Battle of Pea Ridge, where he distinguished himself by killing the Confederate general, McCullough.

After the war Bill returned to Kansas and became a scout for General Custer, who set a high value on his services and who once said: "Whether on foot or on horseback, Wild Bill was one of the most perfect types of physical manhood I have ever seen." From 1867 to 1870 Hickok served as marshal of Hays City and Abilene, Kan.

Hickok's adventurous career came to an end in the Black Hills of South Dakota. He had gone there with the first gold rush and in some way had incurred the enmity of Jack McCall, a gambler. On August 2, 1876, McCall treacherously shot him in the back as he sat playing cards with some of his friends.

It is intellectual steam that keeps the world's wheels revolving.

Doesn't it seem remarkable that America progressed so far before she ever heard of "efficiency experts?"

500 AUTOMOBILE COMING IN ONE HUGE SHIPMENT

Speeding from New York to the Pacific Coast is the largest shipment of one commodity ever taken across the continent. It consists of 500 automobiles, shipped in a single trainload of 100 steel freight cars from the Durant Motor Company of New York to Earle C. Anthony, Inc., of Los Angeles, Calif. Attention to this unusual shipment was called today by G. W. Holston of the Southern Pacific Company, over which the auto train is being routed.

In addition to being a record transcontinental shipment, this "Durant Prosperity Special" is the largest single delivery of automobiles ever made to a retail dealer. The train is routed through Chicago, Council Bluffs, Ogden, and Roseville, Calif.

The train is nearly a mile long, and the Durant Motor Company places a value of $335,550 on the shipment. This is the fourth big trainload shipment from the Durant plant at New York in a month via the Southern Pacific, in addition to smaller daily shipments that have absorbed the plant's production of seventy-five cars a day.

The New York plant was the first of five big factories in the Durant group, organized less than a year ago, to get into quantity production. Plants at Lansing, Mich., and Muncie, Ind., went into production in December.

Part of the shipment will go to Oakland and the rest to Los Angeles.

Fitting Her.

The portly Irishman waddled into the shop.

"What can I do for you, sir?" asked the salesman.

"O! want a motor car," said the Irishman. "A first-class ottymobile."

"Is it for yourself, sir?"

"Sure, ye're inquisitive, but if ye must know, 'tis for me woife."

"Long body, sir?"

"Listen to the man!" exclaimed Pat.

"Long body? Begorra, no! She's built like a barrel, same as me. But phwat's that got to do wi' it?"

Absent Organs.

Queer things happen to children, according to the notes their parents send to the teachers. Here are a few examples.

"Dear Miss: Mary's stomach was off and I kept her home for three days."

"Dear Ma'am: Nellie was not well enough to go to school yesterday. Her head was very bad all day, but it worked off during the night."—Boston Transcript.

Some of our greatest admirers of athletics in others call their automobiles or a taxi cab rather than to walk a half dozen blocks to a doctor to tell them that they need more exercise.

Genuine Common Sense

Many Ford owners can afford to own and operate any car they may choose, but they prefer a Ford "because it is a Ford."

For "because it is a Ford" means dependability, ease of operation, efficiency—and it means sure, quick transportation.

And "because it is a Ford" means good taste, pride of ownership and genuine Common Sense.

The Ford Sedan, a closed car of distinction, beauty and convenience, is the ideal all year 'round car, for pleasure or business—for the farm, town or city. It gives you all that any car can give at a much lower cost for operation and maintenance.

Ford Cars of all types are in great demand, so place your order at once if you wish to avoid delay in delivery.
